

Synopsis

A rollercoaster ride of fun heartwarming entertainment that will pull on the heartstrings of the young and old. Set on the golden sunny coastline of California. Laura an experienced lawyer and her young daughter Daisy set off on their early morning swim where they discover a beautiful flamingo, unconscious, tangled in plastic. They rush the dying flamingo to the local veterinarian. Sadly the beautiful creature lays one egg just before her passing. Pinky the adorable baby flamingo becomes intertwined with the family, growing inseparable from young Daisy. Laura begins a romantic relationship with Tom, an avian veterinarian who is campaigning against plastic manufacturers who continue to threaten aquatic species. They must put everything at risk to protect not just the wildlife but themselves from the detrimental effects plastic will have on their lives and educating the next generation about the epidemic we continue to face now and in the future.
